Progressive metalcore powerhouse SENNA have returned with an adrenaline-charged standalone single, "Blackout," available now on all streaming platforms via SharpTone Records.

Renowned for their ability to weave intricate compositions with atmospheric intensity, SENNA raise the bar once again with a track that is both dynamic and deeply evocative.

Following their recent release of the emotionally charged single "Rain," SENNA continue to evolve their sound with "Blackout," delivering a masterful blend of raw energy and technical precision. The band has solidified their reputation as one of modern metalcore's most innovative forces, building on the foundation of their breakout debut EP, A Moment of Quiet.

Reflecting on the inspiration behind the song, band shares, "In 'Blackout,' we really wanted to capture the raw, emotional journey of confronting self-doubt, and overcoming those inner fears that hold us back. It's about facing those personal battles head-on, and ultimately finding the strength to rise above them. The song is a reminder that even in our darkest moments, there's always a way to move forward."

"Blackout" is now streaming worldwide via SharpTone Records HERE.
