"The future of rock music is in safe hands" — Powerplay Magazine UK (10/10)

After the announcement of their brand new studio album Welcome to the Future, hard rock sensation H.E.A.T continues to ignite 2025 with the release of their second single "Bad Time for Love."

Following the success of their first single "Disaster" — a mainstay on rock radio since its release — the band now unleashes this new anthem that pulses with the raw intensity of love on the edge. Listen here.

The song is accompanied by a high-energy music video, directed by the renowned Patric Ullaeus (Europe, Arch Enemy, Children of Bodom, and many more), promising another visual rock feast.

The new album Welcome to the Future is a dynamic, melodic, and powerfully anthemic ride — one that Powerplay Magazine hails as: "(...) not only H.E.A.T's best album to date but one to raise the bar for their peers. This album will certainly be recognised as an AOR classic and is sure to be a contender for album of the year."

Welcome to the Future is set for release on April 25 via earMUSIC, is now available for pre-order and will be released in multiple formats: CD jewel case, black vinyl, limited-edition neon orange vinyl, and digital.

Fresh off the success of the first leg of their 2025 tour, which spanned the UK, Sweden, Finland, Norway, and Denmark, H.E.A.T are preparing to bring their stunning live performances to fans across the globe. Their upcoming tour dates include stops in Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Colombia, Spain, Bulgaria, and Germany.
